To our patients and practice members:

At Union Street Dental Care, your health and safety is our highest priority. The situation with the coronavirus (COVID-19) is changing rapidly, and as it continues to spread throughout the country, we are closely monitoring guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and health officials around the country, as well as local community health departments.

Here are some of the actions our practice is taking to help protect both you and our employees:

- Our staff is using best practices in hand hygiene, the use of alcohol-based hand sanitizer, and sterile gloves
- We have increased the frequency and rigor of cleaning and sanitizing our equipment, work stations, and common surface areas
- We are well stocked with disinfectants and have ordered additional quantities of supplies that may be needed
- We have encouraged our staff to stay home, should they or any of their household members develop symptoms of respiratory illness
- We continue to monitor this evolving situation and remain prepared to adjust our protocols as the situation warrants.
- Based on the guidance we have received and the actions we have taken, our clinic remains open so that you can continue to come in and get the care you need.

The Doctors and staff are leading experts in providing dental and oral health. We work closely with other local health care providers one of which is Dr. Sergio Azzolino and he recommends the following; however, it is always best to speak with your primary doctor first, who knows best your specific health needs to manage this virus.....
